

Why Budapest ?!

Budapest will offer you excellent cultural and social program during your stay.

Budapest is the capital and the most populous city of Hungary, and one of the largest cities in the European Union.

Budapest is cited as one of the most beautiful cities in Europe and is also leading global city with strengths in commerce, finance, media, art, fashion, research, technology, education and entertainment.

Budapest is famous for its spas (123 natural hot springs and drilled wells), furthermore for its culture (223 museums and galleries, which present the Hungarian and European history, art and science) .

Budapest restaurants reflect diversity, with menus carrying traditional Hungarian cuisine (e.g. goulash, paprikás, pörkölt) and fusions of various culinary influences from Asia, France, German, Italy, etc.

SOMED 2018 Congress: “The role of microbiota in health and disease across the spectrum of issues.”

The 40th International Congress of the Society for Microbial Ecology and Disease – SOMED 2018 Congress will be held during 18th - 19st June 2018 in Budapest, Hungary. SOMED 2018 Congress will be a part of International Scientific Conference on Probiotics and Prebiotics and Gut Health-IPC 2018.

The mission of SOMED 2018 Congress is to present scientific achievements and research advances in the field of human microbial ecology and role of the microbes in health and disease. SOMED 2018 Congress provides a comprehensive scientific forum to all stakeholders from this field. The Congress is also a networking event for scientists, researchers and technology providers. The conference will also provide a platform for scientific exchange and discussion between delegates from worldwide academia and industry.

The SOMED 2018 Congress will focus on new knowledge about the role of microbiota in health and disease across the spectrum of issues.

Goal of the SOMED 2018 Congress is to further develop the understanding of the complexity of microbial ecology in relation to diseases, and to explore how to transform research findings to practical tools and applications in order to promote health and prevent disease.

The SOMED 2018 Congress is a unique opportunity to exchange scientific knowledge to explain the role of microbial ecology in health and disease and to initiate international cooperation between scientists and institutions working in the field.

Young scientist AWARD

Special focus will be on the creation of opportunity for young scientists to present their research achievements. The Young will be awarded to outstanding young scientists, who are at the beginning of their career and who conduct basic or applied research in the field of microbiota and disease.
